Welcome To The

Welfare Transition Program

Find out how you can receive assistance to learn new skills and start building a new future today!

What is the Welfare Transition Program?

This program is designed to guide and support your job readiness so you can get off welfare and get a great job!

Here's how we can help. We'll teach you:

- ✓ How to become job-ready and search for employment
- ✓ How to write a great resume
- ✓ Techniques for interviewing

While you are participating in the program, we can also help by providing:

- Child care
- Gas cards and/or bus passes
- Clothing vouchers
- Up to $12,000 dollars for training for a new career!

To stay in the program, you must:

- Participate in specific mandatory activities to get you ready for work
- Keep all required appointments
- Submit all necessary documentation and make every effort to succeed

You may also be eligible for on-the-job training so you can earn while you learn a new job!

Why Should You Keep Your Commitment?

If you do not fulfill your responsibilities while in the program, CareerSource Broward must report to the DCF that you are not participating, which will lead to the following sanctions:

- You will lose your TANF benefits (Temporary Assistance for Needy Families) for a period of time.
- You will lose your SNAP benefits (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) for a longer period, and other services such as childcare and training dollars.

Why Is It Better To Be Working?

- + For Self-Esteem and Pride - The feeling of independence, feeling in charge, and not having to rely on anyone. Being self-sufficient is one path to greater self-esteem and pride.
- + For a Brighter Future - By being gainfully employed, your energy and commitment can increase your income and allow you to gain benefits like money for retirement.
- + For Your Children - Being employed allows for a better standard of living for both you and your kids, and it teaches them lifelong values such as a good work ethic and a drive to success.
